

ICA-3

Work with your neighbor. This ICA will be graded for participation only.

Write a program that reads a (possibly empty) file containing only numbers (and whitespace) and prints out the difference between the smallest and largest numbers. An empty input file should generate no output.

a. two error cases (you should figure out what constitutes error behaviors given the specification above)

b. two edge cases

c. one regular (normal) case